Litle Rock, Ark., April 1.-Three thousand peolpe saw the fourth Arkansas derby won today by the Pastime stable's chestnut gelding, Laureate, The day was bright and warm and the track while not fast, was good. Ninne starters faced the flag for the derby. At the second atttempt they got off in a perfect line and raced in a bunch to the first quarter. In making the turn Bob Clampett was caught in a pocket and had to go around the bunch in straightening out. Lobengula led by a length with Glad, Pepper, Laureate and IE Captian well up, and the others in a bunch till the last turn, where Lobengula increased his lead to two lengths In the last turn Clampett came out of the rear bunch and challenged the leader, but Knapp, Berger, Graham, Weber and Noble went to their whips. A hundred yards from the wire, Lonnle Clayton, on the favorite, called on his mount, who responded with a great burst of speed and drew out winning handly by an open length. Lobengula and Fob Clampett made a desperate fight for the place, the Morris colt get-ting the decision by a scant half length. Clampetti ran a great race and but for his disadvantage at the quarter turn might have won the race. The victory was a popular one and the crowd went wild with enthusiasm for both horse. The first race, a five furlong dash for 3-year-olds and upwards, went to the odds-on favorite, Potentate, who, however, had a bruising with Philomena, the second choice. Sallie Clipuot, the Salvator filly won the second in easy style. The only surprise of the day was the victory of Sir Play over the ds-on favorite, Saricenesca, who uld do no better than show. George Smith, at 1 to 2, and Out won the last race, with Maggle Gray a close sec-ond. A Startling Admission.

In New York City, for five consecutive years, the proportion of Deaths from Consumption has been three in every Twenty Persons.

Epidemics of Cholera, Yellow Fever and sther diseases of similar character, so ter-rible in their results, occasion wide spread darm and receive the most careful consideration for their prevention and cure, while consumption receives scarcely a thought, set the number of their victims sinks into insignificance when compared with those of consumption. Comparatively few people know what to do for their loved ones when they see them gradually lose strength, lose color, manifest feeble vitality and emaciation, or develop a cough, with difficult breathing, or hemorrhage. Cod liver oil was for a long time given in all such cases, but the poor success attending its use coupled with its nauscating taste has led many practitioners, as well as the public at large, to place their main reliance in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It deserves early attention and will prove effectnal not in every case but in a large percentage of cases, and we believe that fully of per rent, of all cases of consumption can, if taken in the early stages of the disease, be cared with the "Discovery." Dr. Pierce does not ask people to believe until they have in-vestigated for themselves. A pamphlet has been published having the names, addresses and photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarth and kindred maladies which will be mailed free to those sending for it with their name and address upon a postal card, or you can have a medical treatise, in book form of 160 pages, mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stamps. In addition there are a score or more of other curies many of them associated with the early history of New England. The next exhibit in point of interest is that of Mrs. J. M. Naylor and is principally made up of articles which evidence the artistic genius of the Japanese. These were sent from Japan by Prof. Naylor's sister, who is a missionary in that country, which is rapidly developing from Paganism to Christianity. It would be idle to attempt to enumerate the articles in this collection, or describe them. They must be seen. The liter-ary museum is extensive and contains some things that are very rare. Respecting these creatures all soof nonsensical beliefs are prevalent, ar travelers who have visited tropical region disagree as to the effects of their his That the poison of any one of the three apt to be deadly has often been asserts The question derives particular impotance from the fact that the animals constantly imported into this country to bunches of bananas and among other fruits from lower latitudes.

Turantulas are simply hig spiders of the kind that build houses with trapdoors. Their bite is very severe and painful, the scar lasting for a long time; but, though it produces a violent inflammation for a short time, it is not dangerous to life. Such, at all events, is the belief of Pro-fessor C. V. Riley. In regard to the contiped Professor Riley says that its bite in warm climates is sometimes excessively virulent and prinful, though at other times, oddly enough, the poison causes little inconvenience. That it is ever fatal Scorpion stings are very painful indeed.

They are dangerous in proportion to the size of the animal, its age and the state of irritation in which it may be. Temperature also has an influence upon the venomi it may be that the sting is occasional? followed by death, but such cases must be very rare. There is no doubt that the sting of certain species commonly found In South America osuses fever, numbres in various parts of the body, tumors on the tengue and dimness of eight. These symptoms last from 24 to 48 hours. The effects produced diminish in violence with repetition, so that a person who has been stung many times may become actually proof against the poison. Some scorptons are much worse than others. The rather small, slender, pale colored kinds have the worst reputation. In warm latitudes certain places are near ly free from scerpions, while others are overrun by them, for reasons not well un-derstood. They are extraordinarily numerous in a valley in the Tierra Templada of Mexico. There it is hardly possible to turn over a stone without finding three or four small and wicked scorpions of a pale color beneath it.

It is a common belief that the legs of the centiped are poisonous, and that they will leave a trail that burns like fire if the animal runs over the bare flesh. This is wholly a mistake. The creature is naturally timid and will not even try to bite if it can get away. The poison causes a good deal of pain, with fever and distress of the head. Centipeds are fond of vermin infested beds, and in tropical countries beds are very apt to be so infested .-

WRESTLING IN JAPAN.

How the Almost Naked Athletes Conduct

According to an article in Current Literature, the contests take place in a huge amphitheater, much like a large circus, sheltered by a bamboo framework covered with matting to keep out the people who do not pay to go in. The top is unroofed There of house of a primitive description line the sides, being reached by ladders from the front. A ring of rice bags incloses the sanded arena, some dezen feet in diameter, in which the combatants meet. The center is occupied by the umpire, a person of much distinction in an old brocade costume, picturesque enough to Europeans and reminiscent of feudal times. Four judges are also in atshould be disputed.

The umpire stretches out his fan and shouts something in a strident voice. At this behest the first couple of combatants appear. The dress is scarcely conventional according to occidental ideas. Indeed there is practically no dress at all. He-yond a strip round the loins absolutely nothing is worn. They stride into the ring smid the plaudits of thousands, take a draft of water from a bucket in the corner, sprinkle themselves with the flui

Two mighty men are they, with limbs and trunks that would not disgrace Sam son. Mountains of muscle some, others mountains of fat. Good bumor gleams in their faces. They slap their thighs and stamp their legs like restive herses and then crouch ready for the spring like beasts of prey. The umpire gives the sig-nal to commence, and they bound inte-each other's embrace. Perhaps the feint

When she asked my opinion of them, being a truthful man, I told her that I had never put anything so unpaintable in my mouth and that a 10-year-old girl could have done better. Then she began to cry. "After that I went down town to my store. A woman came in to get some dress goods. She picked out a material entirely unsuited to her years. Willie Douglass is Bound Over for Assault With Intent to Kill. Willie Douglass, the young colored man who created so much excitement in connection with the stealing of a cap at Danlels' dry goods store, had his preliminary hearing before Judge Hatton yesterday and was bound over to the district court in the sum of $500. Douglass was alarmed less he would be tried on the charge of resist-ing the officers, but Harry Sutton and Bedford Wood were the only officers on the witness stand, each of which told a very modest story of the part they had taken in the exciting episode. The officers evidently intend to take the case of themselves and have no desisting their rightful anthority.

Harry Sutton told how they had gone over to arrest Douglass on Water street, but he said Bedford was grappling with the prisoner when the shot was fired and he could tell about that. Detective Bedford Wood was put on the stand and while there was a large section of court plaster covering the place on the side of his head where a hall from Douglass' revolver had taken effect, his testimony did not indicate that the detective thought he was in very much danger.
